A visitor's guide to the boldest neighbourhood in Calgary

Welcome to Calgary's Boldest Main Street!

Inglewood, established in 1875, is Calgary's oldest main street and neighbourhood.

Its west entrance is across from Fort Calgary, at the confluence of the beautiful Bow and Elbow rivers. Inglewood is situated on traditional Niitsitapi (Blackfoot) territory, and for centuries was an important Indigenous gathering place.

Today, the neighbourhood is a lively shopping and arts district, the heart of Calgary's Music Mile and the home of the Esker Foundation Art Gallery. It is adjacent to the river pathway and features multiple parks and public spaces, including the Inglewood Bird Sanctuary, an urban wildlife refuge.

The historic main street consistently wins Calgary's 'Best Of' Awards! It is home to shops selling vintage furniture, fashion, and rare vinyl, and has a vibrant microbrewery, live music, and dining scene.
